

the theses repository for a minimum period of seven years.

Radboud University can make the thesis freely accessible for users of the theses repository inside and outside Radboud University and can allow users to copy and edit the thesis. Users may only do so and publish the results if done for private study and/or educational and research purposes, with full mention of the name of the student and the location of the thesis.

Radboud University will ensure that the author of the thesis is listed and make clear that if the thesis is used, the origin must be clearly stated. Radboud University will make clear that for any commercial use of the thesis the student's explicit consent is required.

Radboud University has the right to change the accessibility of the thesis and limit it if compelling reasons exist.

Rights and duties of the user

As a result of of this consent form a user of the theses repository may copy all or part of a thesis and/or modify in whole or in part. Users may only do so and publish the results if done for private study and/or educational and research purposes, with full mention of the name of the student and the location of the thesis.

Date: 25-2-2019

Student's name: Kelsey van Duijn

Student's number: 1000608

Faculty: Social Sciences

Programme: Cognitive Neuroscience – specialisation:

Plasticity and Memory

Signature:

Consent Form for submitting a thesis in the Radboud Theses Repository

Radboud University Nijmegen (hereafter Radboud University) has set up a theses repository in which theses written by students in the course of their studies are recorded and made accessible to third parties. This supports the process of creation, acquisition and sharing of knowledge in the educational setting.

Theses will be included in the theses repository for a minimum period of seven years and made available to potential users inside and outside Radboud University. This consent form serves to enable submission and publication of theses in the repository.

By submission and publication in the theses repository copyright is not transferred. Therefore, students can at any time revoke their consent for publication.

Rights and obligations of the student

Name:

Kelsey van Dun

(hereafter the student) grants the Radboud University a free, non-exclusive license to make his/her thesis entitled:

Replicability and uniqueness of tremor characteristics in Parkinsons Disease available within the theses repository to users inside and outside Radboud University. This allows users to copy all or part of thesis as well as modify it. Users may only do so and publish the results if done for private study and/or educational and research purposes, with full mention of the name of the student and the location of the thesis. Permission to make the thesis available to third parties will take effect on the date indicated on this form.

The student grants Radboud University the right to change the accessibility of the thesis and limit it if compelling reasons exist.

The student states that neither the organization offering internship nor the client of the thesis objects to making the thesis available in the thesis repository.

Furthermore, the student states that he or she has permission from the copyright holder of any material that the student has not created to incorporate this material, as part of the thesis, in the theses repository and make it available to others inside and outside Radboud University.

The student grants Radboud University the right to make the thesis available in the thesis repository for a minimum period of seven years.

Rights and obligations of Radboud University

The student's non-exclusive license grants Radboud University the right to make the thesis available to users inside and outside Radboud University.

Radboud University is allowed to include the thesis, in accordance with regulatory requirements, in